LIVERMORE — They looked like creations of a millinery shop in Wonderland. The pastel Easter bonnets of five dozen Arroyo Seco School kindergartners were bedecked with bonbon-colored ribbons and lace, billowy folds of tissue paper, floppy flowers and even plastic toys.

Kindergarten teachers Jean Emery and Carol Reilly were looking for an unusual Eastertime project this year, and they found one in a magazine. It sounded too simple to believe: Spread liquid starch between two large sheets of newsprint, mold to the child's head size, dry, and trim to picture-hat shape.

The children took the hat forms home to decorate with their parents as a parent-child cooperative venture.

What they brought back to school for their Easter parade last week were wild flights of fantasy, delicate designs that set off the big eyes and soft, five-year-old faces and made all who viewed the colorful scene grab for their cameras.

Sometimes that ribbon chokes ya, says flower-bedecked John Bagakis

Sunol Glen fact sheet in works

SUNOL — A Sunol Glen School District committee to support the base revenue increase measure scheduled for the May 27 ballot is presently putting together a "fact sheet" to present to voters in the district.

Last fall, a finance committee chaired by Herman Koopman began deliberations to determine if such a measure was needed and what the tax implications would be.

The committee recommended in mid-January that a measure be prepared for the May ballot. Committeeman Dave Hoxie made the motion to ask county counsel to prepare the necessary papers for an election on May 27. His action was seconded at that time by Jim Ackerman and unanimously approved.

The measure will call for an increase over a five year period. In preparing the financial data, the committee is assuming an assessed valuation increase of 7½ per cent each year and a constant average daily attendance of 150.

Sunol Glen School serves kindergarten through eighth grade.

Under the terms of the report, which will become the body of the measure if approved, the tax rate would go from the present $2.07 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.509 in 1975-76.

The latter rate, broken down, calls for a tax rate increase of .433 cents to fund the program at Sunol Glen, and .093 cents needed to raise $100 for each student (based on the 150 ada).

Without the base revenue increase, the general purpose tax rate would be $1.026. The increase of 43 cents and .05 cents for community service adds up to $1.509. The area wide tax of $1.10, added to the latter figure, brings the total rate then to $2.509 for 75-76. If the measure is approved by a simple majority of Sunol's approximately 350 voters.

The total tax rate would increase another .016 cents in 1976-77 and, ultimately, to $2.579 in 1979-80.

The figures show that the tax rate increase needed to fund the Sunol Glen program would increase from .433 cents in 1975-76 to .636 cents in 1979-80.

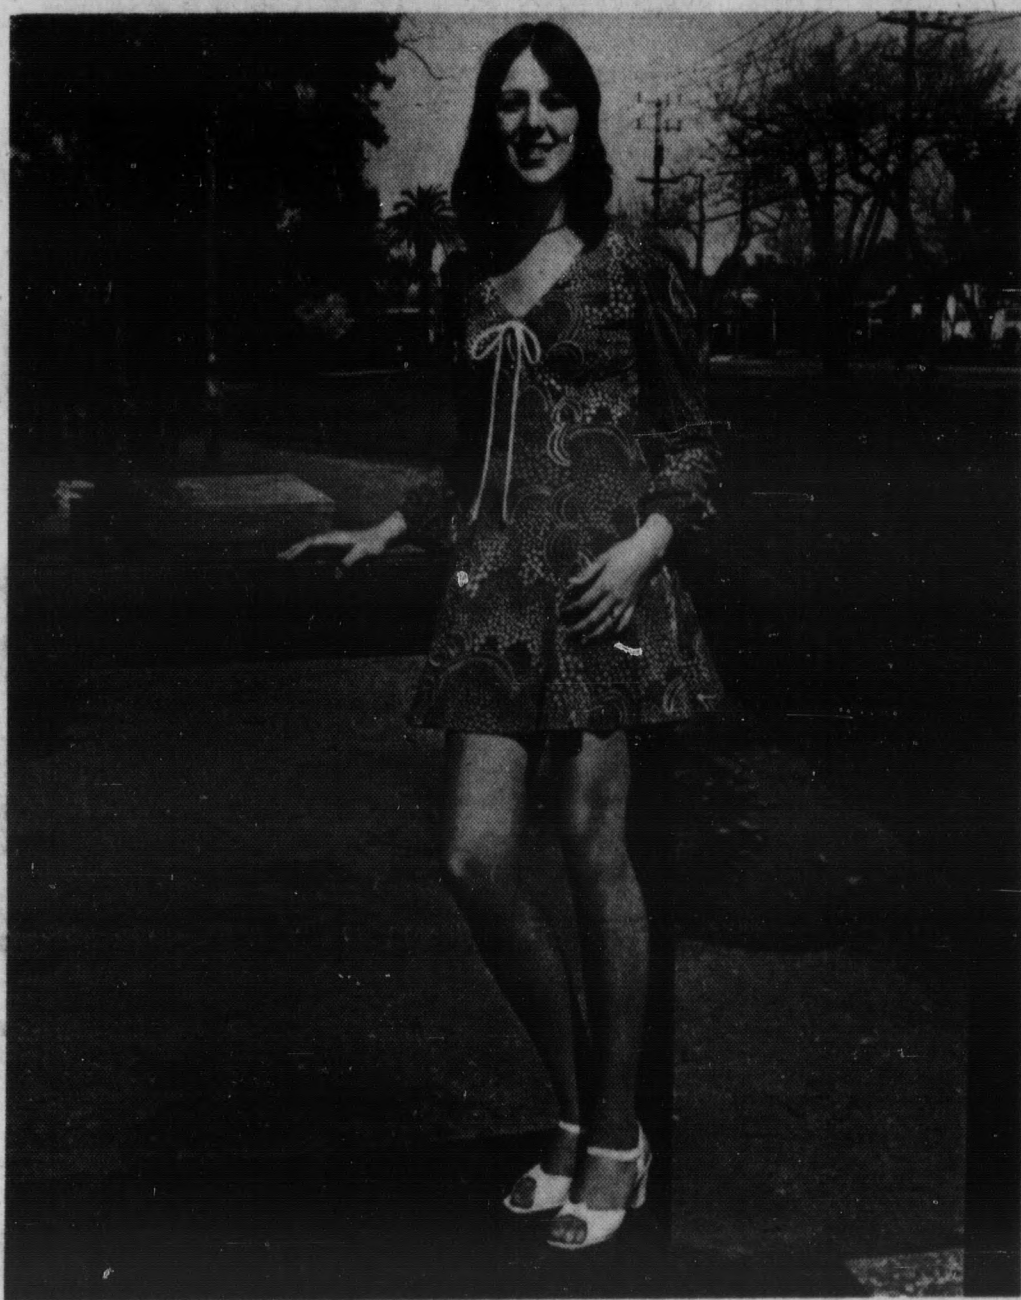

Persons residing in the Sunol area wishing to aid in passage of the measure should contact George Bury, Superintendent Principal of Sunol Glen.

Night of terror ends in violence at Round Hill

By JOHN KEARNS

Terror struck an Alamo neighborhood Tuesday night.

Three armed robbers stalked wealthy Royal Oaks Drive and then entered a house by force and threatened to kill a family of five.

They pistol-whipped Cullen Ingram, dragged his wife, Suzanne, across the floor by her hair and threatened to kill them and their children Jeffrey and Christian.

If it hadn't been for son Gregory, 16, who called police from a hidden upstairs den, the entire family could have been killed, said a sheriff's deputy.

The robbers, three 19-year-olds from Antioch, wanted money and guns, said the Sheriff's Department.

Gregory described what happened as follows: He was watching television in the upstairs den when he heard scuffling noises downstairs.

He descended a spiral staircase and peeked into the main hallway.

There he saw a large man leaning over his mother who was lying prone on the floor.

The man was large and wore baggy clothes, said Greg, and held a shiny pistol. The robber had a mask pulled up over his head, "probably so he could see better," said Greg.

The robber was facing Greg but didn't see him.

Greg quickly climbed the stairs, went to a telephone in the den and asked the operator to connect him with the Sheriff's Department.

The robbers were in a room directly below him and occassionally one or two passed by the open staircase.

One even began to climb the stairs, but stopped when he was halfway up.

"I don't know what he would have done if he saw me on the phone," said Greg.

The operator asked Greg to speak louder, but he finally managed to reach police by keeping his voice low.

"There's a robbery going on here," he said, and then he heard his mother screaming downstairs.

"I didn't know if they were beating or stabbing my parents," he said, but he stayed

Kaiser recycling project nets a lot of aluminum

Nine and one-half million pounds of aluminum cans represent a lot of soda pop and beer.

Some 210 million individual empties, to be precise. But that's what Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation collected — and paid for — in 1974. Enough for 25,000 housing starts.

At 10- and 15-cents per pound, that's $1.3 million. The new gold? A run on silver?

No. Simple recycling. According to Kaiser spokesmen, the energy saved in recycling those cans into molten aluminum saved 95 percent of the energy needed to make the metal from virgin materials.

Now, 15-cents per pound (it was officially raised from ten cents last June 1) won't take you to dinner at a fancy French restaurant, nor will it buy you a brand new Belchfire Eight — it may not even put gas in your Limousine Lizzie — but if the people who claim to know are right, recycling waste may become a way of life. And Kaiser A & C is trying to make the new life style as convenient as possible.

The company's new "Can Do" recycling center program began in Pleasanton this past Mar. 13, and to date has been a better-than-expected success.

We must consume a lot of soda pop. And beer.

The fourth wholly owned, operated and staffed facility at the Center for Technology, 6117 Sunol Blvd., is open from noon to 4 p.m. every Thursday, and in spite of its inhospitable reception — it was snowing that day — the company is most proud of its latest endeavor.

The Pleasanton site is one of 54 Can Do centers in Northern California, Washington, Idaho and Montana, and is part of a chain of some 1300 operational centers throughout the country.

During 1973 more than 1.6 billion all-aluminum beverage containers were recycled throughout the country.

Induction into the recycling chain is not limited to cans, however, since the Kaiser center accepts cleaned and flattened foil in addition to cleaned aluminum TV dinner trays, according to company spokesman.

Ecology-minded groups throughout the country may earn money while contributing to a cleaner environment. Mobile van aluminum recycling centers operate five days a week — Tuesday through Saturday — in both Alameda and Contra Costa Counties.

The 2,500-pound capacity van will be scheduled for collections on a regular basis, and operators will certify the weight of the aluminum — a minimum 200 pounds per pick up — and write a check to the organization. (For further information call Kaiser at 271-3469).

While it's been argued by some manufacturers that the public, by its reception of "throwaways," is not really interested in recycling, Kaiser feels the traditionalists are wrong.

Quite the contrary, the Kaiser people see recycling as part of the answer to the energy and solid waste crises. You know about the solid waste crisis, didn't you? — By Ron Rodriguez

Some new faces on Times' staff

PLEASANTON — Art Cook, a 10-year veteran of the Lesh Publishing organization, has joined The Times as its advertising director.

Cook was born in Norfolk, Neb., and moved with his family to Yuba City as a youth. He studied at San Jose State College four years, then pursued psychology for two years at San Jose State. His first contact with the newspaper business came when he was working part-time designing letterheads for a printer.

Cook joined the Contra Costa Times in September, 1965, as an ad representative, later became ad manager for the Lafayette and Orinda Suns.

He enjoys painting seascapes in oils and acrylics in his leisure hours and also likes golf.

Art and his wife, Nona, are both Little League coaches in Walnut Creek, where they live with their four children. Charles "Chuck" Hiatt hails from Monmouth, Ill., by way of Hutchinson, Kan., to become a Times advertising sales representative for Dublin.

Born and raised in Monmouth, Hiatt was graduated from Brown Business College in Galesburg, Ill. He sold ads for the Monmouth Review — Atlas for nine years, then moved to the Hutchinson News.

He served with the Army as a sergeant first class in Korea during the Korean Conflict, and belongs to the American Legion. Chuck also is a past Exalted Ruler of the Elks and a past president of the Exchange Club, both in Monmouth.

He's a sports fan, but not a Raiders fan. Instead, he roots for the Chicago Cubs and Bears, and also enjoys playing a round of golf. He's staying with a brother in Pleasanton but plans to move to the Valley soon. Newest face in The Times newsroom is Bill Cauble, 22, a California State University, Hayward, intern who spends his afternoons assisting with features, photos and rewrites.

Bill's ambition is to become a photojournalist. He packs a Minolta 35 mm single-lens reflex camera and recently won second place in the state for college news photography, for his shot of AC Transit buses standing idle during the strike.

He's former editor of the Cal State paper, "The Daily Pioneer," and is majoring in mass communications. A senior, he expects to graduate next fall.

Times readers have already seen samples of Bill's work, including a Page One photo of a children's choir visiting an old people's home. In the coming months he'll accompany staff reporters to meetings and will gradually take over responsibility for turning out original news and feature stories.

A graduate of Fremont High School, Oakland, Bill lives in Oakland with his family.

on the phone and told police which rooms the robbers were in.

He also told police where officers might enter the house.

Then he heard two gunshots inside the house, followed by "a barrage of from 7 to 25 shots outside."

He ran downstairs and found his mother trembling and his father bleeding from ahead wound.

His younger brother Jeffrey, and younger sister Christian, were uninjured in the pantry where they had been ordered to stay by the robbers.

The whole incident lasted about 20 or 30 minutes, said Greg.

Jeffrey said one of the robbers came to the door and asked, "Is there a Susie here?" "Dad said 'no' and the robber said that dad must have made a mistake. Another robber pushed the door open.

"Dad saw that the first man had a gun."

The robbers took Jeffrey, 11, and Chris, 14, from the television room to the dining room.

The robbers then asked the father if he had any money or jewels.

"They also asked us where our wall safe was," said Jeffrey, "and we told them we didn't have one."

The robbers asked Mr. Ingram to produce all the guns in the house and he led them to a 22-caliber pistol.

The robbers searched each room in the house, however, and discovered at 38-caliber pistol in Mrs. Ingram's bedroom.

"That's when they thought dad was lying to them and they beat him over the head with a pistol," said Jeffrey. "They hit him five times with the pistol and kicked him in the shin."

"They asked us for money and jewels and asked my sister where the wall safe was."

"She said there wasn't any and the robber said 'don't give me that.'"

"My sister started crying and finally the robber said he believed her."

They tied the father's feet and put him behind a living room sofa.

They put the children in a different room and left the mother on the floor of a hallway, said Jeffrey.

Mrs. Ingram had been crying and screaming while the robbers beat her husband.

"One of the robbers saw a policeman running across the backyard," said Jeffrey, and he told the others.

"Then they ran toward the doors."

Sheriff's deputies gunned down two of the robbers when they left the house and found a third in the garage.

Mrs. Ingram said the robbers threatened to kill the family when they searched the house.

Greg and Jeffrey said the robbers entered the neighborhood in an old, beaten up black Buick which they left about eight houses away from the Ingram home.

"One was a real nut," he said.

"Two questioned my mother and one of the robbers whispered answers in her ear so the other one wouldn't get mad."

"He kept saying things like 'you're not answering fast enough.'"

According to Carole McMullen, a neighbor girl, the robbers tried to get into her parents house before going to the Ingram house.

"One man came to the door and asked if Cheryl lived here," she said.

"My father said no and didn't open the door. We looked through the windows and saw the man walk off."

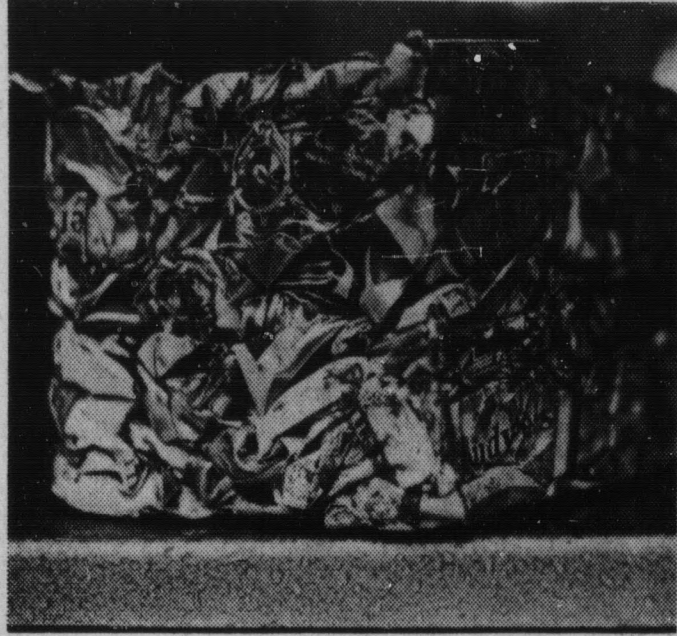

"There might have been others hiding in the bushes but we only saw one man."

The McMullen house is two houses and about half a block from the Ingram house.

No nearby residents heard anything unusual until police opened fire.

Neighbors said they thought the shots were car backfires at first.

"Who would think of gun shots," said Mrs. Richard Clark, a next-door neighbor.

A lot of soda pop and beer.

Industrial areas may be exempt from space-urban zone measure

LIVERMORE — The new open space-urban reserve (OS-UR) zoning about to be approved by the city may not be applied to those areas zoned for industrial uses. Planning commissioners at their study session Tuesday night discussed the application of OS-UR zoning and preliminarily concluded that industrial lands need not be rezoned OS-UR according to Planning Director George Musso.

The new zoning is an interim growth measure adopted by the city to control its growth. Developments may take place on land zoned OS-UR, but only under the planned unit development (PUD) procedure. It is because of the required PUD — a complex, and time-consuming procedure — that commissioners are considering exempting industrial lands from OS-UR zoning.

Planning commissioners will continue to discuss applying OS-UR zoning to residential, agriculture and commercial zones.

Seals hockey star Stewart

Feeling 'at home' in Pleasanton

By Lily Ault

After living in apartments since he was 16, Seals hockey player, Bob Stewart, 21, is now a full-fledged Pleasanton homeowner with his wife Rhonda.

"It's great to be a homeowner," says Bob, "and I'm learning what it's all about pulling weeds, fixing things in the house, re-arranging furniture and hanging drapes. I'm also learning owning a home is very expensive!"

Actually, Bob is looking forward to the summer months not only to be able to enjoy his backyard pool, but because he will become a father in June.

After looking at a "multitude of homes," Bob knew immediately that this one in Pleasanton was what he wanted.

"Because we had looked at so many homes," his wife commented, "I really didn't pay too much attention when we went through this one. But when we got in the car and he told the salesman, 'This is it,' I wanted to run back into the house and take a closer look."

Both are happy with their newly purchased home, its location and the fun of getting it into order. Rhonda has been doing most of the decorating herself, wallpapering and painting, while Bob is traveling.

"It makes the time go faster," she said, "and I really enjoy fixing things up so it doesn't seem like a lot of work to me."

Bob shops with Rhonda for the furniture since "he must like it too" and, needless to say, they both have excellent taste.

Although the Stewarts have not had the time to fully get acquainted with people in the neighborhood, they find the ones they have become acquainted with are very nice, friendly people.

"When we moved in," said Bob, "a couple of the neighbors came over with a pot of coffee, introduced themselves and offered to help us. It was really neat, they treated us as though we were old friends instead of new neighbors in the area."

When you find this kind of friendliness in a neighborhood," he commented, "you know you bought in the right location."

Also this summer, Bob plans to be teaching the fundamentals of hockey at the Dublin Hockey School.

Bob feels that public in hockey and attendance at the games is increasing continuously.

The young hockey player's family consists of two sisters and one younger brother who is also interested in hockey and "giving it a go."

Interest in hockey began with Bob when he was a young boy and at the age of 16 he left home to play with the Junior "A's."

The new homeowner still has a number of good years left in the hockey world, but when the days come to retire from the sport, he would like to get into a business of his own, perhaps a restaurant.

When he has time for his hobbies, they include tennis, reading, watching television, swimming and water skiing.

Besides keeping busy being a homemaker, and preparing for her baby, Rhonda is active with the Athletic Wives Association, serving as treasurer.

Although Bob and Rhonda are both from Canada (both their sets of parents live there), and own a cottage in Canada, they have no desire to go back. "We love California," said Bob. "Our families can come and visit us which will be a nice holiday for them."

BOB AND RHONDA STEWART
He's waiting for the summer months so that he can put his hockey stick away and enjoy the swimming pool at his new home. She's readying the house for a new baby expected in June.

Issue urgent call for long or short-term foster homes

Because public and private agencies concerned with child placement were faced with the urgent need to find foster homes, JACKIE was first organized in 1949 by Father James Murray of the Catholic Services.

JACKIE (Joint Agency Committee for Kiddies — an Interdenominational Effort) was the first organization of its kind in which all religions and races were united in a common cause: to remove homeless youngsters from institutions and place them in family environments.

Ecumenical in scope and volunteer in action, JACKIE was envisioned as a public relations program to bring the need for foster homes to the attention of the community, and to motivate families to offer a home through JACKIE.

The concept, originating in San Francisco, has been copied by many communities throughout the United States, including Alameda County.

Presently JACKIE is financially supported by and serves these private and public child-placement agencies: the Catholic Social Service, the Jewish Family Service Division of Jewish Welfare Federation, and the Alameda County Welfare and Probation departments.

From the beginning, volunteers have been essential to the JACKIE program.

Currently the agency is in need of emergency short-term foster care homes for children ages 6 to 9 years. In a new effort, JACKIE is trying to place these children in homes, where before they have been sent to Snedigar Cottage institution.

All living, medical and dental needs are furnished for the children by the County, while love and care comes from the foster parents. Most children are from broken homes and are especially in need of understanding and guidance.

The JACKIE office located at 1944 Fruitvale Ave., Oakland, where a part-time secretary, assisted by volunteers, receives offers of foster homes. Prospective foster parents are then referred to the appropriate placing agency.

Interested persons are urged to call JACKIE at 532-2016 for further information. There is a need for foster homes for children of all ages on short terms, or until they reach maturity.

JACKIE is a non-profit organization which does not solicit funds.

Brochures of full course listing and registration information are available by calling 462-1615, Ext. 42, weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuition is $4 per person per class.

Two new crafts classes are "Stained Glass," and "Leathercraft," scheduled because of high popular demand.

Fine arts and music classes include "Creating Jewelry," guitar, oil painting, picture framing, art appreciation and pottery.

"THE GODFATHER - PART II" is an enigma. You might also want to agree it's an out - and - out oddity.

What this overwrought pastiche is doing on the list of Academy Award nominations is a question many will be trying to answer or justify even when it fails to come up with an 'Oscar.'

One of the categories in competition is for 'best direction.' How? Why? The film is as slow - paced as a lethargic snail. The directorial hand is pompous and ponderous — pedantry personified.

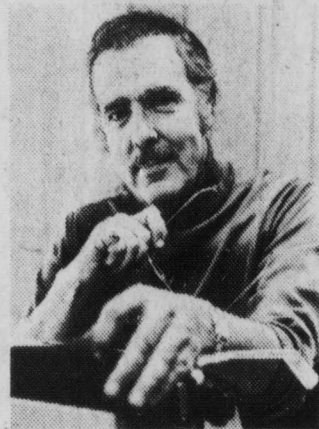

There are some fine performances in the 3 - hour - plus picture, but the tempo is set at the very opening with a funeral dirge including weeping, wailing and a flood of English sub-titles to translate the in - depth Italian dialogue and not even the finest actor can rise above it. Gradually, like a glorious sunset they all sink below the horizon of ennui combined with stupid bloodshed.

Many have said it's a better picture than "The Godfather." If this is true, anyone who missed the initial opus will certainly be confused as to that first film's qualities. In no way is it a better movie. Rather "THE GODFATHER - PART II" compounds whatever faults its predecessor might have had.

The big mistake, however, is that the story comes from nowhere and goes nowhere all the while propounding an ugly an immoral premise which is best expressed in Michael Corleone's line: "I don't want to kill everyone. Just my enemies." — and this with a tragic sigh after everyone from an obnoxious senator to his own brother has been bloodily removed from the dramatic personae. This is not meant to imply that I have a boyscout attitude toward life. Even Pollyanne had her points — no pun intended — and I do decry the necessity of continually glamorizing the seamy sides of life in the name of dramatic theatre. The only justification is if there was something new to add to the literature of the film.

SETTING THE SCENE

Bill Hayden

All too obviously "THE GODFATHER - PART II" is just more of the same. We've been the route so many times before and have seen it done so much better there is really no excuse for it. Why weren't the millions made with the parent film enough? I guess that qualifies as the silliest question of the season, but I won't retract it.

One of the worst aspects of the unfortunate film is the fact the cinematographer went berserk with backlighting. He photographed everything by the actors and what was going on. Everything was murky or soft focused as if to hide the gory goings-on. It was a physical strain to concentrate on the screen. The audience I saw "THE GODFATHER - PART II" with was exhausted at the end of it from eyeball to posterior and that is really not any reasonable man's idea of education or entertainment.

The density of the image reminded me of an old story told by Jesse L. Lasky when he was in charge of production of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company that eventually merged with Zukor's Famous Players to become Paramount pictures.

Two no-hitters open MV tourney

A no-hitter is a baseball pitcher's dream, like a race car driver's yearning to win the Indy 500.

It's not often a high school athlete throws a no-hitter, maybe half a dozen are thrown each season.

When two are thrown on the same day there's reason to look skyward.

But that's exactly what Granada's Steve Stone and Dublin's Steve Grant did yesterday in the Mission Valley

Athletic League Easter Invitational.

Stone held the John F. Kennedy Titans hitless as his Matadors breezed to an opening round win on the Titans own diamond.

Three hours later Grant sent historians scurrying for the record books when he stymied the Newark Knights as the Gaels walked off with a 7-0 victory on the Irvington High diamond.

Undoubtedly, someone is going to have to lash a base hit today when Granada and Dublin collide at 3 pm on the JFK diamond in a quarterfinal game.

Grant fanned nine and walked three as he sent the Knights down hitless. A good fastball and an exceptionally hard curveball kept Newark off balance all day and enabled Grant to make the Knights hit his pitch.

Eventual losing pitcher Gabe Ledesma was the only Knight to reach second base, when he walked and went to second on a fielder's choice.

Grant had some anxious moments in the seventh inning when Jim Robertson drilled a line drive to center. Gael Jim Hunter appeared to have the ball in sight, but hesitated and came on quick to make a shoe string catch.

The Dublin contingent went up in cheers when John Preto neatly fielded a Dan Gubbins ground ball and fired it to first base. Jim McGaughey to complete Grant's gem.

Dublin scored seven times in the first three frames to mount a comfortable lead.

The Gaels tallied three times in the last half of the first with the benefit of only one base hit.

Prieto led things off with a walk and promptly stole second base. He went to third when Ledesma threw the ball into centerfield trying to pick him off second.

Dave Anderson walked to put runners on first and third, and after Dave Woy went down on strikes, Grant walked to load the bases.

Kurt Rohren tapped a grounder to second, scoring Prieto, and Matt Billy came up with a clutch single to center, plating Anderson and Grant.

Sean Mays led off a wild second inning which produced three Irish runs, with a single to right. He went to second when Knight right fielder Ralph Johnson watched the ball roll beneath his legs.

Prieto lashed a single to center, bringing home Mays, and went to second when Anderson worked Ledesma for one of his nine walks.

The runners moved up a base on a wild pitch, and Prieto scored when Rohren missed his attempt at a suicide squeeze. The ball popped loose from catcher Dan Gioroso and Prieto dashed home.

Anderson went to third on that wacky play and stormed home when Rohren dribbled out to first base.

The Gaels put the final run on the board in the third when Hunter struck out but reached first when the ball got away from Gioroso.

The fleet Gael stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on yet another misplaced fastball.

The calm, cool and collected Grant took charge and kept the Gael lead intact with some dazzling hurling.

The sixth inning was a tribute to Grant's control when he threw six pitches in retiring the side. Feeble pops to the catcher, center fielder and left fielder were all it took to set the Knights down.

Something will have to give today, though neither Stone nor Grant will pitch. A couple of top line pitchers, Preto and Bob will go to the hill with one outcome assured: An EBAL team will go to the semi-finals of the MVAL Invitational.

Running away from home

Fascination vs. fatigue

Roy Kissin

EDITOR'S NOTE: Before leaving for the International Junior Cross-Country Championships, held in Rabat, Morocco March 16 (where he finished eighth among 125 runners), Danville's Roy Kissin agreed to share his impressions of the trip with Times readers. His series of journal entries continues today, and will run through Sunday.

A sunrise over the Atlantic from 39,000 feet is amazingly beautiful. One's attention is diverted from the bright, clear stars by a dull line on the horizon. No form is visible, only light and dark. The paleness gradually spreads. The ocean begins to glimmer, no longer black, but grey. The paleness, once slight, blossoms into bright changing hues of orange and red until suddenly, the sun bursts over the horizon. A round of applause sweeps through the aircraft.

A short time later we find ourselves strolling through the streets of Lisbon, Portugal. The city is besieged. A revolution has just been put down. Soldiers armed with machine guns are everywhere. It is frightening. The turmoil, which we in the West don't much concern ourselves with, becomes real to me here.

We reboard the aircraft and land in Casablanca three hours later. Then a two-hour bus trip to Rabat. I am tired, but unable to sleep. There is so much to see, and I don't want to miss a thing.

My first impression of Morocco is that it is a very, very foreign country. Everything is strange to me. The Moslem influence is pervasive. Veiled women and turbaned men burdened with huge bundles trudge along the shoulder of the road. Most of the dwellings suggest abject poverty, yet still reflect the Moorish influence of better days.

Suddenly we pass a huge, well-kept estate. It is safe to say that there are two social classes in Morocco, the Royal family and the peasantry.

The countryside is covered with fields of lush, tall grass. The Moroccan farmers mark boundaries with fences woven from the grass — in themselves fine examples of handicraft.

The overall view presents quite a contrast to the "blistering hot deserts" of the fire commercial. I understand that the Sahara does exist, but much farther south.

Exhausted and irritable, we eventually pull up at the Rabat Hilton. Delegation Chief DeCelle haggles with the manager for a half hour, then emerges. We start for another hotel. "He thinks all Americans are rich" is DeCelle's only explanation.

When our gear has been safely unloaded and the bus is gone, we discover that the second hotel is unable to provide us with showers — a runner's most vital need. We debate what to do, then opt for the Hilton a second time, only now we have no means of transportation.

Everyone wants to run back, but I can't summon the energy. DeCelle catches a cab while the runners strip and change in the lobby. The concierge looks distressed.

I am left spread-eagled on the baggage, and quickly drift off to sleep. The bus will come an hour later for me and the bags.

I awake to the bus driver's shrieking Arabic. I grab what I can and make for the bus, which is blocking both lanes of a one-way street. Incredible! The traffic is backed up for a half-mile by the time we pull out.

Meanwhile, back at the Hilton, DeCelle and the manager have come to terms. Somehow, I find the strength to stagger to my room, climb into bed, and drop into a deep, dreamless sleep.

Knicks endure

The Knicks staged a late comeback against the dwindling Bullet forces, and earned a 40-39 triple-overtime victory in the Pleasanton Police Athletic League Senior B basketball championship Tuesday.

Despite trailing the entire game, by as much as nine in the third quarter, the Knicks knotted the score after regulation play at 33.

The Bullets, minus four starters who exited on fouls, wavered in overtime, and lost when Roy Cobb and Graig Hirst hit clinching free throws.

Cobb paced the Knicks with 25 points. Teammate Rich Moran poured through 10.

Game honors went to the Bullets' Glen Gunter with 27 points. He fouled out in the first extra period.

Bruce Paulson, Greg Moreland and Dan Bosold all played well for the Bullets.

The Knicks' Leon Longman scored four points in the second half.

Dons, SR collide today in Arroyo semi-final

SAN LORENZO — Amador Valley and San Ramon move into an all EBAL semi-final as the result of wins over Oakland and Pacific in yesterday's second round of the Arroyo Easter Baseball Tournament.

The other EBAL entrant, Livermore, surprised observers by losing its second game in a row, 4-1 to San Leandro.

Amador lefthander Mark Larson limited the Wildcats to just three hits in the Dons' 7-2 victory. The 6-3 senior struck out 13 batters while walking three.

"They just outplayed us," admitted Oakland thirdbaseman Mike Lee after the contest.

"And errors — don't forget the errors," chimed in rightfielder Audwin Thomas. The 'Cats committed six errors, all during the three middle innings in which the Dons tallied.

Amador broke the scoring ice in the top of the third.

Larson led off with a walk and went to third when Lee fielded Steve Vaughan's sacrifice bunt attempt but threw it away for an error that left runners at the corners.

Greg Bellinger followed with the game's longest extra-base blow, a triple up the right-centerfield power alley that scored both runners. A consecutive pair of fielder's choice plays removed Bellinger from third and left Dave Krikorian as the Dons' lone baserunner (at first). Krikorian went to third on a stolen base and a wild throw by 'Cat catcher David Valenzuela.

Brett Boldrini continued the already lengthy rally with a run-scoring single. The Don centerfielder, also a notable soccer player, then swiped second and came around to score on the second Valenzuela throwing error of the frame.

Both the Dons and Wildcats took up right where they left off when Amador came up in the fourth.

The 'Cats kept fumbling and stumbling, so the Dons kept scoring.

Rich Hall led off with a walk and went to second on a sacrifice by catcher Mark Bevilacqua and to third on a Larson single.

Hall scored on an error by firstbaseman Carlos Gonzalez, and Larson on a line drive to pitcher Terry Johnson that the 'Cat hurler threw away attempting to double his AV counterpart off at first.

The final Amador run came in the next inning. Krikorian singled, went to second on a passed ball and scored on an Ed Bevilacqua single.

Oakland picked up its pair of tallies in the home portion of the fourth.

Skills saves 13, Wolverettes win

The Wolverettes rode Pam Skills' 13 saves to a 2-0 victory over the Shamrocks in State Cup Soccer last weekend.

The winners received goals from Tammy Skills and Patti Lundy. Sue O'Brien of the Shamrocks had six saves.

Karen Nikerson was the top player for the Wolverettes.

The Shamrocks received fine play from Kris Phillips, Cindy Nodlinski, Sophia Setera, Kristie Russell, Pam Russell and Laura Van Etten.

The Red Wings beat the Road Runners with sudden death penalty kicks, 5-4. Sue Sugas, Catherine Kenninger, Kitty Cole and Angie Loder had penalty goals. Terri Campbell scored in regulation.

For the losers, Beth Edwards, Kathy Bukowatz, Lynn Millard and Beth Lezcano scored.

In Dublin Girls Soccer, the Cougars and Chargers tied, 1-1.

Bonnie Monger and Cindy Grant had the goals. Heidi Shelton stopped eight shots at the Cougar net. The Chargers' Angie Silla had seven saves. Top players included Carla Loder, Bonnie Monger, Laurie Zollinger, Kristen Babin, Sandra Prather, Karen Moffit, Kim Presegard and Toni Tangen.

The Dynamites topped the Skylarks, 6-2, despite 12 saves by the losers' Laura Stevenson. Cindy Cave and Madolyn Gilman had Skylark goals. Shari Sutton, and Lisa Plaisted played well.

The Skylarks beat the Cougars, 2-1. Heidi Shelton had 12 saves for the losers, and Bonnie Monger scored.

The Shamrocks pounded the Bruins, 6-1, as Laura Van Etten and Kelly Henderson scored two goals each. Sophia Setera and Kristie Russell also scored. Sue O'Brien had seven saves.

One more step to crossing

PLEASANTON—This city hopes to take one more big step next month in the development of an overcrossing that will allow local traffic to flow direct from Foothill to Hopland roads.

The first east-west clearance of Interstate 680 within the city limits is seen as a major city undertaking in 1976.

Public consideration of an environmental impact report must be received at city hall by April 28. If there is broad acceptance of the project at that time, the overcrossing will then be cleared for final design and formal submission to the Federal Highway Administration.

The city has a working agreement with the developers of the Stoneridge Regional Center to provide for financing of the I-680 overcrossing, using sales tax revenues generated by stores within that planned regional center.

The overcrossing would allow Stoneridge Drive to extend all the way from Foothill to Hopland, a distance of just under two miles. No interchange with I-680 traffic at that point is contemplated.

Top citizen

Chosen in recognition for his many years of service to the Dublin community, banker Jules Barni was named Citizen of the Year Friday night at Coronation Ball festivities. A past board member of the Chamber of Commerce, he initiated the annual trade club night in 1972, and was recently presented the Rotary Paul Harris Staying Fellowship Award, by which the Dublin Rotary will donate $1,000 for scholarships around the world. Barni, manager of the Dublin branch of the Wells Fargo Bank, was chosen from a field of nine nominees.

Pleasanton influence sphere tops agenda

HAYWARD — The Local Agency Formation Commission is expected to set boundaries for the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District and give preliminary consideration to a sphere of influence for the City of Pleasanton at today's meeting.

LAFCO has proposed a drastic reduction in the LARPD boundaries, to make them coterminous with the newly adopted sphere of influence boundaries for the City of Livermore.

At present, the park district's boundaries extend west to Pleasanton, north to the Contra Costa County line, east to the San Joaquin County line and south to the Santa Clara County line.

Following that hearing, LAFCO will hold its first hearing on establishing a sphere of influence for Pleasanton.

No action is expected to be taken on the LAFCO proposal for that sphere, which includes the Dublin area, other than the setting of a public hearing for May.

LAFCO has proposed one city for the west end of the valley, encompassing both Pleasanton and Dublin and assumption of the functions of the Valley Community Services District by the City of Pleasanton.

The LAFCO meeting will begin at 4 p.m. today in the Alameda County Public Works Building, 399 Elmhurst St.

Retaining wall construction scheduled at Harvest Park

PLEASANTON — Retaining walls are to be constructed around Phase I construction of the Walnut Grove School playground.

When walls are completed, umbrella and pine trees and flax will be planted.

Wednesday, April 2 is the date of the playground committee's meeting to finalize plans for Phase II's "model city" as playground designer Jim Wulferding calls it.

This multi-structure play area will be located in the center of the existing black playground. The area will combine, P.G. & E. spools, cement pipes, and tractor tires. Walnut Grove teachers have suggested incorporating structures that can be used as an outdoor stage, obstacle course and swinging areas.

Neal Hilliard and Gary Moore of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary found and transported to Walnut Grove a boat for the playground. These men also donated their time to teach boating safety to valley residents.

The committee is interested in hearing comments and ideas from anyone interested in the "Adventure Playground." Donations or suggestions may be made by calling Phyllis Buonsante, chair person, at 846-2941.
